

No other place in the Philippines is more popular during summer than Baguio City, the Summer Capital of the country. Baguio is where one can appreciate the scent of pine trees, the beauty of fresh flowers, the freshness of vegetables and fruits. Also known as the City of Pines, Baguio enjoys a cool climate most of the year, and has many scenic spots which makes it an important destination especially during the summer months.

The Burnham Park is located in the heart of the city and serves as the venue for programs and festivals. The Mines View Park allows one to see a panoramic view of the valleys and hills of Cordillera and the gold mines of Benguet. Baguio also houses Camp John Hay, a former rest and recreation center for the United States Armed Forces personnel in the Philippines.

Other places to see are the Philippine Military Academy, the country's foremost military institution; and the Lourdes Grotto, which has 252 steps leading to the grotto and allows one a view of the city.
